A Few words on PARKING

We are having problems with parking, number of vehicles, and overnight on-street parking. We are trying to solve the problem without towing.

Here's what you need to know:

-Each HOME is limited to two vehicles in the home. It is all the driveway space that was designed into the homesites here. It is what you agreed to when you signed your lease.

-If you have more than 2 vehicles, you must get it down to 2 per household.

-Only 2 vehicles allowed in the driveway Do not try to squeeze three vehicles into the driveway. Do not park on the sidewalk or on the grass.

-There is NO overnight on-street parking allowed, any season.

Resident's vehicles must be parked in your driveway.

-If a guest (someone staying less than 2 weeks) is staying overnight the vehicle may not be parked on the street. Your guest must park the vehicle in the guest parking lot behind the office.

-No resident owned vehicles are allowed in the guest lot. In order to have room in the guest lot for occasional visitors, no resident may park in the guest lot.

We don't want to tow and you don't want to lose a vehicle to tow, so let's figure something out. Thank you for your cooperation.

the Colonial Repair Guy!

Q: My green treated deck has never been stained. How do I do it?

1. Clean the deck. Pressure washing it first will give you the best results. Pressure washers can be rented from local hardware stores. Let the surface dry very well, 24 to 48 hours or more.
2. Choose a time when dry weather is predicted for a couple of days in a row .
3. Use a top-quality semi-transparent stain. Treated lumber does not hold paint well, so avoid using a 'paint' or a solid stain as it will quickly wear off the deck surface.
4. Using a staining paintbrush or staining pad, begin lightly coating the wood. Always apply the stain lightly and evenly, making sure to overlap the strokes and keep the wood wet with stain. Force the brush bristles into the wood so it sucks up the excess stain. If you are staining a deck, be sure to do the railings and small areas first, using a drop cloth to protect the deck's surface. Also take care not to splash onto the siding of the home.

We have more details and hints on a handout at the Community office.

Run your furnace this summer!

Many of the new furnaces have a specialized "inducer" motor. Much like an old car, when this motor doesn't run for 6 months or more, the shaft of the motor starts to rust. Sometimes a service person can bust it free but if not, the motor would need to be replaced. The cost could run between $200-$300.

To prevent this, run your furnace for 10 minutes, once a month during the summer. You may save yourself some money and frustration!
